TECHNICAL NOTES

FTDNA has changed the format of their webpages! PLEASE sign on to your personal page and proof your DNA results under Y-DNA Results and mtDNA results, ancestor identification information under SETUP PREFERENCES, and make sure all your results have been uploaded to your YSEARCH page if you have one! ALSO please check any Advanced Tests on the DYS Chart; a computer glitch was failing to notify me. If you have ordered any Advanced Tests and have results which are not posted to the DYS Chart, please send me the kit number with "Advanced Test Results not on Chart" in the Subject Line. Thanks!

Also, please email me your YSEARCH IDs for the DYS CHART, so we can all easily recognize you by it when we do YSEARCHs.

DYS452

There is a difference in reporting nomenclature for DYS452 between some companies.

Our reporting nomenclature matches the standard nomenclature used by the NIST.

DNA-Fingerprint also used this reporting nomenclature, as does the SMGF.

Results from Relative Genetics and other resellers who outsource from Relative Genetics do not follow NIST's standard, and 19 must be added to those results in order to compare against the standard nomenclature.

DYS 463

There is a difference in reporting nomenclature for DYS463 between some companies.

Our reporting nomenclature matches the standard nomenclature used by the NIST.

DNA-Fingerprint also used this reporting nomenclature, as does the SMGF.

Results from Relative Genetics and other resellers who outsource from Relative Genetics do not follow NIST's standard, and 2 must be subtracted from those results in order to compare against the standard nomenclature.

Custom mtDNA Reports

There are two types of custom mtDNA reports now available to those of you who want to know what your mtDNA tells you without reading a lot of technical journal articles or spending hours researching your results.

1. For those who have purchased Full Genome Sequences, a custom report is available for $50 from DNACousins@aol.com. I highly recommend these reports as they explain exactly what each mutation means (whether it marks your mitogroup, sub-clade, or is a "private" mutation that has developed in your mitogroup in recent history, whether there are any known medical implications) and how common or rare they are.
2. Geographic reports available from me. I look at your results and provide you with an overview of the locations in which your results are found, current theory on when and where the mitogroup and sub-clade arose, what its migration path has been, and the like. I review current databases for exact matches, and I provide an annotated bibliography of the literature of the sources I have used. These reports are normally $25 for an initial report, but I am offering a discounted price of $5 for results within the following mitogroups: H5, V, K, T2 to members of the WEBB Project. Webb DNA Project members in other mitogroups can order a report for $15.

I also offer an option for an initial report + an annual update as long as I am alive and kicking and able to do this work for $50; WEBB DNA Project members can select this option for $25. The final option is to purchase the initial report now, and then purchase an update for $10 less frequently than annually, say every 2-3 years; there is no discount on updates under this option. A portion of the revenue from this activity goes to purchase additional testing for the WEBB DNA Project, and the rest finances my research into my other lines.

MAJOR NEW WEBB BOOK AVAILABLE:

Keepsake Memories of Merry Webb by Winnie Whitaker and Nonie Webb. 448 pages.

In the words of the authors:

In the past, Merry Webb researchers have always had problems sorting out the Merry Webb's, and searching for the first MERRY WEBB in the U.S.A. It was believed that he was born in the Isle of Wight Co., VA, but with most of those records burned we first find him as a grown man in the area of Goochland & Halifax Counties of Virginia. Many, many dedicated family researchers went to their grave, never finding proof of the first MERRY WEBB or "father and son".

In the documentation herein, we take you step by step through the first 5 and oldest of the many MERRY WEBB'S we found in the Great Southern States. It is our firm belief, they "all" stem from the first MERRY and Anna Webb of Goochland County. The Virginia County lines changed many times, and the MERRY WEBB family had many land holdings.

Included in this document are other sources of information to help you find YOUR FAMILY CONNECTION to the MERRY WEBB lines, and hopefully make your research trip much smoother than ours; and those who preceded us.

Our goal in this documentation was to create a Research Guide, a daily handbook with each family on a one page, self explanatory Family Chart, printing the information so that even the newest researcher could not only follow and understand, but with a quick glance recognize or spot a name, date or location to help make yet another family connection.

It is a "Research Book" filled with detailed documentation, wills, deeds, court orders, etc, written so you can not only "do your MERRY research from this book", but also to be able to follow their lives "as They lived it." Many maps are included, showing where your family lived.

We wanted you to continue your train of thought without getting up to find an old map, that showed the rivers & creeks of the deeds in question.

We wanted you to have this information, so you could understand where their land was located, what was going on in their world, "at the time they lived it" and picture the events as they happened. Then, as you follow in the footsteps of your MERRY WEBB ancestors, you will not only read about their lives, but you will better understand and feel their joys and sorrows, just as we did this past yearthey took us on one great adventure!

Our hope is that you will not only see and understand "which" MERRY WEBB family...YOU are coming from, but you will be able to pick up where we left off, and continue the research of your own line. Be proud of your MERRY WEBB heritage, as we have been with each new discovery.

The book is intended as a "tool" to help you on your journey, saving you hours and months of library research. It is intended as a self-help book, that You will turn to, every day, over and over again. It is a book you can write in, study from, learn from, or even "teach from", and yet, it is personalized for your own needs and documentations.

As new DNA & modern means of research expand, we feel confident we did our best for you with the times and methods at hand. We trusted the information we used, but when in doubt we left it out or marked it as "not proven."
